Your Business Processes Analysed and Improved

Our team can conduct a comprehensive Business Process Analysis to highlight inefficiencies and weaknesses in your organisation's systems

Let an experienced second set of eyes give you some unbiased feedback on how smoothly your business runs. We give practical, easy to implement recommendations that will slash your business costs.

A sample outcome could be a reduction in software packages you use in your business. Often businesses either purchase or subscribe to many software solutions without realising they are duplicating work or just working inefficiently. This impacts employees and training.

A simple exercise is to draw up a spreadsheet and list out all the software packages in use across your organisation. Ensure you add in any fees and subscriptions, plus the cost of training and support. Our goal would be to get at least a 50% reduction in the number of software packages you use. That can lead to substantial savings.

Double handling = twice the inefficiency

You would be surprised at how many manual, labour intensive processes make up the running of the average business. Even where there is a level of automation, often efficiencies are squandered because of the lack of integration between the various systems.

With the proliferation of software as a service, our consultants often find that a typical business depends on around 8 to 10 different services just to get the job done. The problems are compounded when the various software solutions don't "talk to each other." This results in costly double handling and missed opportunities for gaining efficiency.
